Communications Workshop: Covering Elections and Voting in 2024

Our Communications Workshop on Covering Elections and Voting in 2024 is hosted by former NPR Correspondent Pam Fessler

The conversation will center on The Elections Group's newly released Covering Elections and Voting: A Media Guide, written by Fessler.

The guide offers practical tips for reporters on engaging with election officials, increasing their understanding of election processes and exploring the human elements of elections. And it's a worthwhile read for election officials and staff because it describes the types of information reporters might seek and ideas on how to make such information more readily available.
