Calls for hand-counted votes underline mistrust in election process

“Jennifer Morrell, CEO and founder of The Elections Group, told UPI the conspiracy theories about voting technology coming out of the 2020 election certainly played a large role in eroding the trust in elections. It all kind of goes back to the messaging we saw post-2020 related to conspiracy theories about voting technology,’ Morrell said. ‘Four years of fear-mongering and grifting, repeating those messages.”
