AI's threat to election integrity in focus at Las Vegas Ai4 summit

Morrell, who worked as an election official for nearly a decade, now runs The Elections Group, an organization that consults election officials on how to improve the voting process and provides direct support for jurisdictions. She emphasized that AI could make disinformation that election officials were already facing even more intense.

The democratization of disinformation that AI brings meaning the ability to produce, very quickly, images and videos and audio has a lot of folks worried that, even without AI, we're struggling to stay ahead, Morrell said.
