Dominion, voting firm targeted by false 2020 election claims, sold to new owner

“KnowInk is ‘highly regarded’ in the election community, said Jennifer Morrell, CEO of the elections group and a widely respected election administration consultant.”

“‘I’m confident they would not be buying Dominion if there was any possibility they could not offer the same great services and support that they currently provide election officials with their e-pollbook and voter registration systems,’ she said.”
